Now can be held even in remote towns with little fear of arson, and in the last five or six the world's Young Men's Association convention, national Sunday School convention and other great Christian flags have been held in Tokyo with little fear of disturbance as would have been in any city before.

Unchurched Population

only one-half of the adult population of America are members of a church. The Protestant churches about 33,000,000 of members in aggregate, and the Roman Catholic church report about 13,000,000. About all baptized children, leaves about 35,000,000 people 10 years of age who are not members of any church. Included in unchurched population are millions of foreign speaking people speaking scores of different languages. There is, therefore, a need for aggressive missionary work on the part of all the churches.

How to Detect the Alum Baking Powder

"Which are the alum baking powders; how can I avoid them unless they are named?" asks a housekeeper.

Here is one way: take the can of a low-priced powder in your hand and read the ingredient clause upon the back label. The law requires that if the powder contains alum that fact must be there stated. If you find one of the ingredients named alum, or sulphate of aluminum, you have found an alum baking powder.

There is another and a better way. You don't have to know the names of the alum powders. Use Royal Baking Powder only; that assures you a cream of tartar powder, and the purest and most healthful baking powder beyond question.

Advantages of Government Ownership of Telephones

"I think," said a prominent eastern business man, "that it would be a beautiful arrangement if the telephone system was owned by the Government. I don't think how nice it would be to have the operators protected by civil service rules, so that when you protested about delay in obtaining connection they could make a saucy answer, telling you to wait until your hurry had abated. It would, of course, be very nice from their point of view, but it certainly would not be good for business. However, in these times the interests of business are not to be considered, for we appear to be at the beginning of an idealistic age when no one shall work and all shall enjoy the blessings of prosperity."

LOOKS LIKE TRACTION LINE

Promoters of New Industry Seek Franchise to Sell Electricity For Power

AND HEATING PURPOSES

The much-talked-of interurban line between Madisonville and Nortonville now seems a certainty, according to James Breathitt who is representing the Madisonville & Nortonville Light, Power & Traction Co., who spent several days in the city last week in the interest of the line.

At first the company stated that the road would be built provided the Madisonville Light plant could be secured, which would then give the traction company the right to furnish the lights and power for the city. The board of public works stated that the plant was not for sale at any price. However, the company realized that the line from this city to Nortonville would be a money-making proposition. It is now proposed to have the city offer for sale a franchise which will permit of selling electricity for "power, heating and manufacturing purposes," which is to be drawn up by the city attorney and sold at an early date.

Surveyors are now in the field going over the proposed route and it is believed that in the event the franchise is granted actual work will begin within the next three months.

SEEKS REVENGE ON BEN JOHNSON

Washington Newspaper Digs up Ancient Claim of Government Against The State of Kentucky

The Washington enemies of Representative Ben Johnson, of Kentucky, who are "sore" because of his efforts to cut off the pipe line which they have with the Federal Treasury sprang a grand coup Wednesday, but they did not fence the fighting Kentucky. They dug up an ancient, cob webby claim of the Federal Government against the State of Kentucky, which claim is in the fair round sum of $1,435,757.39, and they paraded their discovery under large headlines in a front page story of one of the Washington afternoon papers.

It seems that away back in 1839, when the government of the United States had more money than it knew what to do with and when omnibus pork bills and other scientific ways of dissipating the surplus had not yet been invented, large sums were deposited by the general Government with the various States, then composing the Union for "safe keeping." It seems that nearly all the States, including Kentucky, were seized with a lapse of memory and forgot to return the money.

Just to get under Ben Johnson's hide, the fact is now published that Kentucky owes the Government the tidy sum of $1,435,757.39 and it was intimated that Johnson, who hails from Kentucky, has a good deal of gall to go after the District of Columbia as he does when his own State was jumping the big debt. Washington is cresty.

At first Mr. Johnson's impulse was to whale away and pay the debt, but when he reflected that if he did so it would deplete his pocket change, he decided to ignore the whole matter, simply stating that he was not surprised that Washington wabt's all the money in the Federal Treasury but he was a little astonished that it should hunt up old due bills in order to increase its pathetic haul on the public funds.

"During the last thirty-five years," said he, "Kentucky has contributed $3,500,000 toward paying the expense of the district of Columbia. A favorable report was agreed upon to abolish this time honored soft snap for the District.

TWO MURDERS LAST WEEK

Will Boyd Acquitted at Examining Trial For Killing Dan Mills at This Place

ED NORRIS KILLED AT MORTONS

Two negroes are dead and another had a narrow escape when a bullet fired from a revolver in the hands of an angry negro ripped his undershirt as smoothly as if a razor had been used. This is the total Christmas tragedies in Hopkins county for the week.

At this place the first of the week Will Boyd, colored, shot and instantly killed Dan Mills, another negro, of this city, as a result of a quarrel. It seems that Mills was drinking and started a quarrel with Boyd. It is claimed that Mills went away and returned with a gun, and was trying to shoot Boyd, when the latter drew a revolver and fired, several shots taking effect, resulting in instant death. The verdict of the coroner's jury showed that Boyd acted in self-defense and at his examining trial he was acquitted.

The second killing took place at Morton's Gap Wednesday afternoon, when Ed Norris was killed. Lewis Norris, a brother of the dead negro, is in the county jail charged with the murder, his examining trial being set for today.

There are several reports as to how Norris was killed. It is claimed that the negro made a statement before he died that the shooting was an accident and blamed no one. The brother claims that the dead man shot himself. A 12 year old child, the only witness, and a daughter of the dead man, stated that the brothers quarreled over a board bill, which resulted in both opening fire with revolvers and the fatal wounding of her brother. The case will be tried before Judge Bradley.

Thursday afternoon at Morton Gap, Tom Jones took a shot at a young negro named Gohee, but his aim was bad and the only damage to result was a ripped undershirt where the bullet went through. The negroes quarreled over some trifling matter. Jones was arrested and his examining trial held over to await the action of the grand jury.

The Time The Place And The Man

(Advertisement)

Great occasions bring out great men, and obscure lesser ones. Such an occasion was the Democratic state platform convention of 1911; and the most conspicuous figure in that convention was J. C. W. Beckham. Had not that convention adopted a platform containing the county plank, the Democrats could not have carried the state in the fall; and had it not been for Governor Beckham, the plank would not have been adopted.

That convention was the climax in the fight of the people of Kentucky for legislative fulfillment of the constitutional guaranty of the county unit in local option, and the turning point in the campaign of 1911. Like every climax, viewed in perspective, it draws in bold relief the personages included and epitomizes the elements involved in the events leading up to it.

Since Gov. Beckham is a candidate before the people for the United States Senate, that occasion and the epoch it includes is worthy of a retrospective glance for the significance it may have in the senatorial campaign.

Briefly reviewed, the situation was this: the county unit was the issue. Judge E. C. O'Rear, a man with a record on the issue; had won a notable victory in his own party, and it looked as if he might sweep the state in November. Senator J. B. McCree had accepted the Democratic nomination for Governor only after he had been assured of the active support of Gov. Beckham; and it was clear to everyone that unless the Democratic party should hold a platform convention and unequivocally pledge itself to the enactment of a county unit law, the ticket had no ghost of a show.

In this plight the party representatives met in convention at Louisville, and there began a struggle that was as dramatic as it was inconclusive. The liquor interests caring nothing whether the administration would be Democratic or Republican, hoped to prevent the endorsement of the county unit by the Democratic party, and save the legislature unpledged, and thus prevent the enactment of the law. Luke Goliath of the Philistines, it stood out before the camp of the faithful and challenged them; and like David of old, Gov. Beckham stood forth the champion of righteousness to meet the powerful foe. Henry Watterson son appeared as spokesman and herald for Goliath.

The result is history: Goliath was defeated and his herald put to rout. The county unit plank was adopted and the state was redeemed to Democracy; just as it is recorded that the children of Israel shouted and pursued the Philistines; but that, you remember, was after David prevailed over Goliath.

The simile is not unworthy. The whiskey trust is to Kentucky what the copper trust is to Colorado; it stands for "big business" here, the Goliath of allied interests, grown arrogant with wealth and power. Many of the faithful trembled lest Beckham, affronting it, would defeat the party.

And Beckham, too, had shepherd his father's sheep in Nelson Co. He had flung many a well directed stone at a wolf or two. His apprenticeship was thorough for this achievement in the platform convention.

When one recalls the robust figure of the former Governor standing on the stage in defense of the people and the Constitution, his mind reverts in wonderment a score of years and pictures a slight form of a pale youth occupying the same seat in the House of Representatives in which his father had died. That youth was Crepps Beckham.

Before the first session was over, Beckham became critically ill; and a specialist sent him to New Mexico for his health. The next spring finds him home—fighting for Joe Blackburn for United States Senator. That was in '06 when W. O. Bradley was elected Governor and the legislature was a tie, with Godfrey Hunter, the Republican nominee, and Joe Blackburn, choice of the Democratic caucus. Beckham had been asked to return to the legislature from Nelson County, but his family forbade it, but he saw to it that Isaac Wilson, a Blackburn man, was nominated.

Strange fatalities have thrown unexpected responsibilities upon this young man. Scarcely had Isaac Wilson cast his vote in the Democratic caucus for Blackburn before he died, leaving a clear Republican majority on joint ballot. Then Senator Steger, that admirable Teuton from Louisville, declared that he would pair with Wilson's successor until a certain date in February, affording time for a special election, and Godfrey Hunter's backers said they would carry Nelson County if it took a fortune. The Democrats of Nelson looked around for their strongest man, and the choice fell on young Beckham. Ill though he was, he accepted the nomination, made a mid-winter campaign, and came off victorious with but forty-eight hours of the time when Steger's "pair" was up. He hurried to secure his commission and start for Frankfort; but a railroad wreck ahead made connections impossible and all through the cold winter night preceding the day when the legislature should resume balloting for senator, that sickly boy rode in a buggy from Bardonia to the Capital and saved the day.

His enemies might have remembered this incident, and realized that Beckham could neither be killed off nor intimidated by fear. He was elected to the succeeding legislature without opposition and the record he had already made in the house won him the honor of the speakership. During that session as presiding officer of the house he ably seconded the progressive policies of William Goebel, and helped pass the McCord bill, which was vetoed by Gov. Bradley, but which Mr. Beckham had the pleasure of signing as Governor later on.

It was because of his progressive ideas and marked ability as a legislator and leader that he was chosen for second place on the Democratic ticket in the memorable Goebel campaign. How, when an assassin's bullet laid low the chief, he was suddenly called upon to assume the executive chair in a commonwealth, rent almost with civil war, and the still more disturbed aftermath of intra-party factionalism, is yet fresh in every mind. It was a task that called for the powers of self-control, magnanimity and capacity; but so well did Beckham discharge his duties that he elected to fill out the term and again for a full term. That of itself was a signal achievement; but Gov. Beckham did more than merely hold on. He carried out the policies of Goebel and displayed initiative as well as grasp of affairs. The McCord bill, giving the railroad commission annuity powers to fix rates; the school book law, the extension of the school term from five to six months, are among the accomplishments of his term.

In managing the finances of the state he brought prudence and foresight into play. Payment of debts was never suspended during his term, and the end of every fiscal year showed a balance. Yet he recovered a million and a half in war claims of long standing from the government, retired a million dollars of bonded indebtedness and built the magnificent new Capital at Frankfort, paying every cent due on it up to the time he retired from office. This is a great record for an administration thrust upon a young man, scarcely old enough to qualify for office and in the midst of unparalleled discord.

But he aspired to the Senate. A congressional cabal stirred up the factional strife, with the origin of which he had no part; slanderous accusations were made, and the state ticket was defeated; yet the episode was clarifying. The resentment of disappointed factions spent itself in the campaign; four years of Republican rule but emphasized the virtues of the Beckham administration and failed to expose one flaw in it.

He stands before the people today vindicated by his enemies, maturer, stronger, better equipped than ever.

But what of the platform convention of 1911? Why, the whiskey trust had defeated Beckham for the Senate in 1908. The Democratic voters in a popular primary had selected him for the honor and the responsibility, and their choice was betrayed by the treachery of four of their own representatives in the General Assembly at the behest of the whiskey trust; because Beckham's administration had been made notable by the enactment of a local option law under which a hundred of the 119 counties had gone dry, and because he had dared recall the legislature in special session in 1908 to enact the rectifiers' license, which the trust had smothered in the regular session, and because he had closed the Louisville saloons on Sunday.

Does any one think that Mr. Beckham could not, by capitulating to the liquor interests, have won back those traitors and been elected? He was strong enough to refuse office at the price of principle. That was all, except that because of this Beckham was the champion called upon to meet the Goliath in 1911, and it is why the people in 1914 intend themselves to right the wrong done them in 1908, and with the ballots in their own hands elect J. C. W. Beckham to the United States Senate.

The Railroad President and The Efficiency Expert

When James J. Hill was in New York, a week ago, he attended a dinner at a private house, at which there were a number of men prominent in business affairs, and the railroad rate matter was discussed in an informal way. Mr. Hill is said to have related an interesting experience with a certain lawyer who professes great depth of knowledge regarding railroad affairs, and who, for a considerable time past, has been posing as an authority on economic operation. The latter began to tell Mr. Hill what economies could be instituted in shop methods and be proceeded to build up a locomotive, telling the cost of the different parts, the best means by which they could be put together, and the saving effected by this method, compared with the usual practice on the railroads. Mr. Hill, so the story runs, made a note of all the figures, and found, when he had them all assembled, that the cost, as figured by the great expert, was higher than that at which, in actual practice, the same kind of locomotive could be turned out at the Burlington shops. Croup is a terrible disease. It attacks children so suddenly they are very apt to choke unless given the proper remedy at once. There is nothing better in the world than Dr. King's New Discovery. Lewis Chamberlain, of Manchester, Ohio, writes about his children: "Sometimes in severe attacks we were afraid they would die, but since we proved what a certain remedy, Dr. King's New Discovery is, we have the fear. We rely on it for croup, whooping cough, and colds." So can you. 50c and $1.00. A bottle should be in every home. At all drug stores. H. E. Bucklen & Co. Phila. St. Louis.

How To Take Good Care Of Your Hair

Nothing spoils your good looks so much as homely hair—straggly, dull-colored, harsh. Nothing adds to good looks so much as beautiful hair—soft, silky, wavy and glossy. No matter how beautiful your hair is now, you can improve its good looks by using Harmony Hair Beautifier. If your hair is homely and ugly now, Harmony Hair Beautifier will make it softer, silkier, glossier, more beautiful in every way. It also makes it easier to put up and helps it to "stay put." Its rich rose odor hides the unpleasant, oily smell of the hair. Harmony Hair Beautifier is rightly named; it beautifies the hair.

Very easy to apply—simply sprinkle a little on your hair each time before brushing it. It contains no oil, and will not change the color of the hair, nor darken gray hair.

To keep your hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of hair and scalp, insuring a quick and thorough cleansing. Washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness—just a sweet-smelling cleanliness.

Both preparations come in odd-shaped, very ornamental bottles, with spritzler tops. Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.00. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Both guaranteed to satisfy you in every way, or your money back. There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a fatal disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Palle's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for literature and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists.

DRY PHILOSOPHY

You may have noticed that the kind of women who have to break and to attract attention are in the danger of breaking any hearts.

Only a coward asks a girl if he can kiss her. He is putting all the responsibility up to her.

Look out for the fellow who is always bragging about his honesty.

When a man has been out all night and comes home with a pain in his wife thinks she is getting even with him when she refuses to fix him any breakfast. But the way to get even with him would be to force him to eat breakfast.

If marriage is a lottery why doesn't Uncle Sam punch the newspapers for announcing the drawings?

Every man has a lot of clippings for a scrap book, and every woman has a lot of pictures she is saving to have framed, but neither the scrap-book nor the frames ever materialize.

If all women were alike there would be mighty little trouble in this world.

And we are all mighty charitable when it comes to giving away John D. Rockefeller's money.

The wisest man we ever knew could speak seven different languages and could never think of anything to say.

Not enough truth before marriage and too much truth after marriage causes most of the divorces.

It must be hard for an undertaker to look solemn when business is good.

The styles are so crazy this fall that a woman could get a lot of old draperies off a box in a theatre and throw them on any old way and have a fashionable gown.
